Dear Mr. Kelley:

Thank you for your letter to Mr. McDone announcing the 1962 National Civil Service League Awards.

We have been highly honored by the selection of officers of this Agency for these awards in the past and shall give thoughtful consideration to nominations for 1962. Our senior officers are reviewing possible candidates at this time and we shall write to you again concerning our final selections by 1 December.

Career Service Awards

EIGHTH ANNUAL PRESENTATION
HONORING CAREER PUBLIC SERVANTS

National Civil Service League

1881-1962

Career Service Awards

The National Civil Service League, a nonpartisan citizens' organization for good government, announces its Eighth Annual Career Service Awards Program.

Purpose

This National Civil Service League program is undertaken to strengthen the public service by bringing national recognition to significant careers in the Federal service.

The League will grant awards to ten career employees who exemplify in an outstanding manner the primary characteristics of the career service: efficiency, achievement, character, and service. Extensive publicity through television, radio, magazines, and newspapers will be given to the selections and the presentation of the awards.

The Award

The Career Service Award recipients will be presented with a scroll and will be guests of honor at a dinner in Washington, D. C. to be addressed by a nationally prominent speaker and attended by many leaders of government, business, education, and the professions.

Basis of Selection

1. Efficiency and achievement

A record of exceptional efficiency; evidence of sustained superior performance and accomplishment.

2. Character

A record of integrity and devotion to the principles of public service.

3. Service

At least 10 years (including military service), not necessarily all in one agency. This must give evidence of achievement and career progression.

Nomination of Candidates

Agency and department heads are invited to nominate candidates. Men and women in all grades and occupations, in the field and overseas as well as in the departmental service, are eligible. Nominees must be employed in one of the career services of the Federal government (e.g., competitive civil service, Foreign Service, Tennessee Valley Authority, Federal Bureau of Investigation, Library of Congress, District of Columbia), or by their records must be clearly identified as career employees who are making government service their life work.

What to Submit

No more than three employees may be nominated by each agency or department. Nominations must be submitted in triplicate with two photographs (8 x 10 glossy) and include:

1. A cover sheet containing:
 - a. The following pertinent data about the employee:

Name, title and grade	Length of government service
Organizational location	Marital status; number, ages, and names of children
Residence address
Date and place of birth	Education and degrees
 - b. A brief description of the service record of the nominee.
 - c. A summary paragraph setting forth the substantive achievements which qualify the candidate for consideration.
2. A written statement no more than three additional pages in length containing:
 - a. Justification for the nomination in terms of the primary considerations already noted as the basis of selection.
 - b. Human interest factors especially related to the career service.
 - c. Comments on the nominee's participation in professional societies, social welfare, civic, and church activities.

Supplemental material may be attached in support of the nomination but the foregoing statement should stand on its own.

Closing Date

Nominations must be submitted by December 1, 1961, to the Awards Board, National Civil Service League, 315 Fifth Avenue, New York 16, N. Y.

Present plans call for granting the Awards on March 13, 1962.

The Judges

A special board appointed by the Officers and Board of Directors of the National Civil Service League will serve as judges.

The Honorable John A. McCone
Director
Central Intelligence Agency
Washington 25, D. C.

Dear Mr. McCone:

We should like to elicit your personal support of maximum publicity for and attendance at the League's Eighth Annual Career Service Awards banquet, to be held at 7:00 p.m. in the Sheraton-Park Hotel on March 13. A formal invitation is enclosed. We should be most pleased if you could sit at the head table during the dinner and attend our reception preceding it at 6:15 in the Continental Room.

The purpose of the Awards banquet, as you probably know, is to honor ten of 1962's most outstanding Federal career civil servants. The program affords them national recognition for devoted and distinguished service to the nation. It also increases significantly the esteem in which all government employees are held.

This banquet has become an impressive community affair in Washington. Many Federal people enjoy attending even though no one from their agency may be receiving an award in the current year. Since the Awards program honors the entire Federal service, you may want to issue some kind of personal message to your employees urging them to attend the banquet if they can.

We should appreciate it very much if you could appoint some official of your staff to encourage banquet attendance by your personnel and to handle the necessary ticket and reservation arrangements. If he possibly can, the official you designate should plan to attend a meeting with League representatives in Room 500 of the District of Columbia Building, 14th and E Streets, NW., at 3:30 p.m. on February 20. It will be helpful if your designee could phone the League's Washington office (638-4755) by 10:00 a.m., February 19, and let us know if he will be present.

Sincerely,

Executive Director

WINNERS OF THE 1962 NATIONAL CIVIL SERVICE LEAGUE AWARDS

ANDERVONT, Howard B.: Former Chief of the Biology Laboratory, National Cancer Institute, and now editor of the NCI Journal, who is cited as "an internationally famous authority in cancer research."

AULD, Davis V.: Director of Sanitary Engineering, D. C. Government, who is being honored for developing a self-financing program of water and sewage disposal for the District of Columbia.

ECKLER, Dr. A. Ross: Deputy Director of the Bureau of the Census, who is being recognized for his accomplishments in improving the development and presentation of Census statistics.

GODEL, William H.: Deputy Director of the Advanced Research Projects Agency, Department of Defense, who is cited as "a generalist of the highest order" whose achievements range from Marine Corps intelligence officer to manager of the launching of the world's first communications satellite.

GROVER, Dr. Wayne C.: Archivist of the United States who is credited with developing the National Archives as a nationwide service.

HARDING, Bertrand M.: Deputy Commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service, who in less than 20 years has progressed from the bottom to the top of the Civil Service ladder and whose credited achievements include simplifying methods for taxpayers and applying data processing techniques to the handling of returns.

HUGHES, Philip S.: Assistant Director for Legislative Reference, Bureau of the Budget, who reviews all legislative proposals from executive agencies for the President and assists in presenting the President's program to Congress and who is being cited for his ability in handling "one of the highest and most delicate (jobs) in the Federal service."

SILVERSTEIN, Dr. Abe: Director, Lewis Research Center, National Aeronautics and Space Administration, who is being recognized for his 32 years of leadership in aircraft and space technology, particularly in the current Mercury astronaut program.

WERTS, Leo R.: Administrative Assistant Secretary of Labor, who received the Department's Distinguished Service Award for his review of the Department's programs and administration and who is also credited with developing an exchange program of labor leaders between this country and Germany resulting in a non-communist German labor movement.

WILLIS, The Honorable Frances Elizabeth: United States Ambassador to Ceylon, who is the first woman to rise from Civil Service ranks to become a career ambassador. Also, she was the first woman to attain the position of career minister when she served in charge of the U. S. Embassy in Stockholm in 1932.

NATIONAL CIVIL SERVICE LEAGUE AWARDS BANQUET

1. Action Required

By letter dated 13 February 1962 (Tab A), the Executive Director of the National Civil Service League (1) extended an invitation to the DCI to attend the 1962 NSCL Awards Banquet and (2) elicited his personal support of maximum publicity for and attendance at the banquet.

2. Time, Place, Speakers

The banquet will be held at 7:00 p.m., Tuesday, 13 March 1962, at the Sheraton-Park Hotel. Tickets are $5.50. Officials seated at the head table wear "black tie"; dress is optional for other guests. The banquet is preceded by a reception at 6:15 p.m., attendance by invitation.

Principal speaker will be Senator Henry M. Jackson, Chairman of the National Policy Subcommittee of the Senate Government Operations Committee. Master of ceremonies will be Theodore F. Koop, Vice President of CBS.

3. Award Winners

The ten 1962 award winners are listed in the attached Tab B. This information is for release 26 February 1962. The Agency's nominee, Dr. Herbert Scoville, was not selected.

4. Guests

Members of the Cabinet, members of the Senate and House Committees on Post Office and Civil Service, members of the Civil Service Commission, Federal Administrators, and the 1962 award winners have been invited to sit at the head table and to attend the reception preceding the dinner.

Dr. Sherman Kent, a 1961 award winner, will receive a complimentary ticket to the reception and banquet. Lyman Kirkpatrick, a 1960 award winner, will be invited to these functions.

As of 20 November, Secretary of the Treasury Dillon, Secretary of Labor Goldberg, and Secretary of State Rusk had accepted invitations and are expected to attend. (1962 award winners were selected from these Departments.) It is expected that about 1,000 guests will attend, including a number of Congressmen and officials of the Executive Branch.

5. Agency Participation in Prior Years

Although there was no formal participation before 1960, General Cabell attended the 1957 banquet and a group from Personnel attended in 1959. There was substantial Agency representation in 1960 and 1961.

Mr. Dulles attended the receptions in 1960 and 1961 but due to prior commitments could not attend the banquets. General Cabell attended both the receptions and the banquets in these years as sponsor of the Agency's award winner.

There is attached a brief sheet concerning the 1962 National Civil Service League Awards Banquet. You may wish to discuss this at the next Deputies Meeting to get an expression of interest as to the extent to which we should publicize this affair.

Mr. McCone has been invited to the reception and the banquet and, if he accepts, will receive two complimentary tickets. He would be seated at the head table and appropriate seating arrangements would be made for his guest (who may be an Agency officer or anyone else whom he might wish to invite).

The Office of Personnel has assisted in publicizing this program and has handled ticket sales in prior years and we are prepared to do so again. If special efforts are to be made to encourage attendance, it is suggested that these take the form of announcements at staff meetings. Otherwise, it is suggested that we simply send information concerning the banquet to each Deputy Director for such further dissemination as they wish to make.

We have talked with [redacted] concerning whether or not Mr. McCone planned to accept this invitation and he has requested additional information concerning previous attendance by the DCI. We are accordingly sending him a copy of this material.

10 Outstanding Civil Servants To Be Honored

America's Ambassador to Ceylon, Frances Elizabeth Willis, will be honored as the first woman to rise from the Civil Service ranks to become a career ambassador, it was announced last night.

She will receive one of the National Civil Service League's 10 Career Service Awards at a banquet at 7 p. m., March 13, at the Sheraton-Park. Other winners include David V. Auld, head of the District's Sanitary Engineering Department.

Miss Willis, who holds a Ph.D. degree from Stanford University, entered the Foreign Service as vice consul at Valparaiso, Chile, in 1928. She became U. S. Ambassador to Switzerland in 1953, to Norway in 1957 and to Ceylon in 1961.

The 81-year-old National Civil Service League, a private organization dedicated to improving Government service, will also present awards to:

Bertrand M. Harding, deputy commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service, who rose from the bottom to the top of the Civil Service ladder in less than 20 years.

Abe Silverstein, director of the Lewis Research Center, Cleveland, Ohio, for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. He is credited with major contributions to the Mercury astronaut program, the Tiros weather satellite, the Echo communications satellite and powerful rockets for future space flights.
